

HANDOUT #3: JAR ACTIVITY WORKSHEET

A neighbor knocks on your door and says he saw your 8-year-old break his window yesterday while playing ball. Your child has not told you anything about this, but you did notice that the child came straight home from school today and went to her room, which is not typical. The neighbor says there is no mistaking it was your child, because he watched her run into your house after she broke the window. The neighbor seems sincere and believes it was an accident.

J (JOINING):

A (AMENDS-MAKING):

R (RE-DO'S):

